German-Brazilian Summerschool INTERACTIVE KNOWLEDGE PRODUCTION IN SELF-ORGANIZED URBAN SPACES

Focusing on self-organized settlement structures and their mechanisms of spatial production, the German-Brazilian summer school targets the self-organized occupation of Solano Trindade in Duque de Caxias in the metropolitan region of Rio de Janeiro to develop various interactive and conceptual approaches with the intention of improving housing and open spaces as well as local infrastructure. In the context of self-organized settlements the summer school aims at facilitating and transferring integrated knowledge about the current research fields of urban metabolism and the social production of space and infrastructures.

The core of the summer school is a collaborative on-site workshop that includes the participation of students lecturers residents and a locally active cooperative. By stimulating interactive knowledge production the summer school is a practical initiative to present current teaching and research approaches to global issues (such as climate change planetary urbanization) to students and scientists and to apply them in the practice. The summer school also represents an opportunity for the intercultural interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary German-Brazilian exchange between the participants and the institutes to expand.

The summer school will engage German and Brazilian students and will be held under the direction of the Department of Landscape Architecture and Open Space Planning TUB (Kathrin Wieck) in collaboration with the PROURB / Faculdade de Arquitetura e Urbanismo Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro (students of architecture and urbanism Prof. Dr. Luciana Andrade Dr. Juliana Canedo) the Department of Urban Planning and Spatial Design of the BTU Cottbus (Natacha Quintero) the Institute for Applied Research in Urban Futures of the University of Applied Sciences Potsdam (Prof. Dr. Michael Prytula) and the Department of Department for Urban Renewal and Sustainable Development (Toni Karge).
